

Leaders Rule Out Any Tax Cut or 'Spending' Orgy

Negro Student Expelled From Central High

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — The "Little Rock Nine" became the "Little Rock Eight" Monday night as the school board expelled one of the nine Negroes who integrated Central High School Sept. 25 under bayonets of paratroopers.

The student, Minnie Jean Brown, 16, had been involved in five racial incidents in the school since integration began.

School Supt. Virgil T. Blossom recommended the expulsion to the school board last Wednesday. Blossom has authority only to suspend students. Expulsion is up to the school board.

"The Little Rock school board has sustained the suspension of Minnie Jean Brown," Blossom said after the board held closed session. "That is absolutely all I will say at present."

The Brown girl was first suspended Dec. 17 after she spilled soup on two white boys in the school cafeteria. She was subsequently kicked by a white youth and had a purse thrown at her by a white girl whom she called "Continued on Page Three"

WASHINGTON (UP)—The administration's legislative and economic high command today ruled out attempts to buy prosperity with a federal "spending orgy."

It also said no to anti-recession tax cuts now, ranking instead on expectations of a business upswing in mid-year and on economy-boasting programs already started.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland said after a White House breakfast meeting that "merely going on a spending orgy is not the solution of our economic problems."

He said a tax cut would not be "advisable, feasible, or wise at this time" because of heavy government obligations and the need to hold the federal debt line.

Meet Without President

The administration, Knowland said, feels the economy will pick up by the middle of the year. If it doesn't, the situation will be reviewed before Congress adjourns.

Republican legislative leaders discussed the recession with administration economic leaders over bacon and eggs at a White House conference in President Eisenhower's absence. The President, who usually presides at the weekly legislative meetings, is vacationing in Georgia.

Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams attended today's breakfast, but a White House spokesman said that no one presided. He said it was an informal round-table discussion.

Meeting with Knowland and the other legislative leaders were Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson, Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks, and Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell. Also sitting in were William J. Sullivan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, and Gabriel Hauge, another of the President's economic aides.

As the Republicans conferred, congressional Democrats were calling for increased federal spending on public works to pull business out of its slump.

Increase Highway Spending

The administration already has proposed a two-billion-dollar highway program spread over five years. Knowland said anti-recession programs already projected will have a "beneficial chain reaction effect throughout the economy."

Knowland cited stopped up spending on the federal-state highway program and increased defense expenditures in addition to the proposed post office construction program as steps that would benefit the economy.

The GOP leader also said that private housing starts showed an upturn in January and would total 1,100,000 if continued at the January rate.

Weeks reported that $2,100,000 will be spent on the highway program in 1958 compared with $700 million dollars spent in 1956.

Knowland said Mitchell reported that unemployment is expected to decline by April, when the figures for March are released by the government. Unemployment was 4,600,000 in January, and Weeks has predicted it will climb to five million this month.

Doubt Tax Cut

Some economists have suggested tax cuts to bolster consumer purchasing power and jack up the economy.

But Knowland said he believes a tax cut is "not likely" to be part of the administration's legislative program this year.

Spy Swallows Bolts in Try at Suicide

NEW YORK (UP) — Doctors have removed more than 1½ pounds of nuts, bolts and screws from the stomach of convicted Russian spy Jack Soble, who swallowed the hardware in an apparent suicide attempt, it was announced today.

The 4½ hour operation was performed Monday at Bellevue Hospital, two days after Soble was brought to the Federal House of Detention here from the Federal Penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa. U.S. Dist. Atty. Paul W. Williams said Soble swallowed 25 ounces of hardware while working at the prison workhouse.

Had the operation not been performed Monday, Soble probably would have died within 24 hours, Bellevue doctors said.

Williams said X-rays were taken Sunday, shortly after Soble complained of feeling ill. An operation was ordered.

Doctors said Soble was doing "very well" but it would take four or five days before full recovery can be assured.

The hardware Soble swallowed included seven rivets, each with a 1-inch head and a ½-inch shank; two carriage bolts, one ¾ inch long, the other 2½ inches long; and five heavy nuts.

Soble is serving a seven-year sentence for espionage. He and his wife were convicted of taking part in a spy ring in which Hollywood movie producer Boris Morros operated for years as an American counter-spy.

LOCKPORT, Ill. (UP) — A sixth child died today from a fire in a converted truck trailer home where nine brothers and sisters lived.

The father and mother who tried to rescue all their children suffered serious burns. The three surviving children also were burned seriously.

All Around Town

By The Star Staff

Around coffee downtown the conversation, when it gets off of tax assessment, usually turns to basketball.

The Senior Girls Class A state tournament should be even better than last year, especially from the financial end. A State Tournament just naturally brings out folks who usually don't take time for regular season basketball and of course, the tried and true fans will go regardless.

Incidentally, that Hope-Texas game tonight should be a real battle — no doubt about it, those Bobcats have turned into a very determined team of late.

Anyway, from tonight through Saturday night there will be basketball on the menu and it will be pretty hard for even a remote fan to stay away.

Another sports treat is scheduled for Wednesday night in the high school cafeteria.

Coach Frank Broyles of the Arkansas Razorbacks will be guest speaker at a dinner sponsored by the Razorbacks and Bobcat Boosters.

Porker fans from surrounding area will be on hand to hear the new mentor who will bring along some of his assistants.

Death Marches With the Nation's Bitterest Cold Wave in Years

Testifies Least 'Qualified' Got Miami Channel

By NEIL MacNEIL
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—A Federal Communications Commission examiner said today that the FCC picked the "least qualified" of four applicants when it awarded a Miami television channel to a subsidiary of National Airlines.

The examiner, Herbert Sharfman, testified before a House investigating subcommittee which has heard charges that FCC Commissioner Richard A. Mack received money from an attorney for the successful applicant, Public Service Television Inc.

Mack, who has denied any wrongdoing, has been promised an early hearing. The subcommittee also had heard allegations that Col. George Gordon Moore, Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower's brother-in-law, was a "key influence" in the FCC decision. Subcommittee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) said Moore "ought to come forward" if he can shed any light on the subject.

Overruled by Commission

Sharfman conducted 32 days of hearings in 1954 to determine who should get the lucrative Channel 10 at Miami. He recommended in a 90-page report that the channel be awarded to Col. A. Frank Katz, a former Miami Beach mayor or owner of radio stations in Miami.

But the commission overruled him last February and awarded the channel to Public Service, a subsidiary of National Airlines. The vote was 4-1-1, with one commissioner voting to uphold Sharfman's recommendation and then voting for a third applicant.

Warns Russia May Try a Sneak Attack

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep. Clarence Cannon told the House today a new Navy report warns that Russia might stage a sneak nuclear attack on the United States with missile-launching ships disguised as merchant vessels.

The Missouri Democrat, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said in an hour-long speech that such an attack could hit any U.S. city within 550 miles of the coast and strike a "decisive" blow in a nuclear war.

He said 43 of the biggest cities in the U.S. and 85 per cent of this country's industries are located less than 500 miles from the coast.

"Can there be a comeback from an atomic Pearl Harbor?" he asked.

Cannon referred to a report by the chief of naval operations which, he said, outlines the use of disguised merchant ships as a "possible method of attack by the Soviets."

"Not only would an attack by disguised ships be more difficult to recognize than one by missile-firing submarines, Cannon said, but 12 ships could do the job of 35 subs."

Cannon said that normally there are 75 unidentified ships within 500 miles of the U.S. coast at any given time. He quoted the report as saying it would be "prohibitive" to try to watch each one of these with planes until it either "unmasks" to launch missiles, or moves out of missile-firing range.

No Relief in Sight From Cold Weather

No relief was in sight today for the prolonged cold wave that continued to grip winter-weary Arkansans.

The forecast said it would be mostly cloudy and cold through Wednesday and partly cloudy and continued cold Thursday.

Highs this afternoon were expected to climb no higher than the mid to high 20's in northeast Arkansas and to the 30's elsewhere. Lows tonight will range from 10 to 20 northeast and in the 20's elsewhere, and highs Wednesday between 30 and 40.

It was not quite as cold this morning, however, as it was Monday. Walnut Ridge had a state low of two degrees above zero early today. Paragould had two below early Monday.

Other lows this morning were six at Mountain Home, eight at Batesville, 15 at Newport, 17 at Filippi, 19 at Gilbert, 20 at Dorado, 21 at Texarkana, 23 at Camden, 24 at Arkadelphia, Fayetteville, Fort Smith, Hot Springs, Little Rock, Morrilton and Pine Bluff, 25 at Dardanelle, and 26 at Ozark.

At 11 a. m., today, skies were partly cloudy at Texarkana, El Dorado and Pine Bluff, and cloudy elsewhere in the state and at Memphis. Walnut Ridge had 25 degrees, Memphis 24, Filippi 26, Little Rock 32, Fayetteville 33, Fort Smith 34, El Dorado and Pine Bluff 35, and Texarkana 38.

Telephone Co. Owner Wants to Sell Out

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—A partner of the Standard Telephone Company of Marshall and Leslie asked the Arkansas Public Service Commission Monday for permission to sell his interests.

R. L. Thomas, owner of 73 per cent of the company, told the commission he wants to sell out to the widow of his former partner, G. W. Thomas, for $45,033.60. The partner died last November.

The company recently sold its equipment and facilities at Yellow Springs and Colter for $35,000 to the Yellow Telephone Company.

Fire Blamed on Cold Pushes Deaths to 347

By UNITED PRESS

Sub-zero winds howled into the snow-crippled Northeast today and punched deep into Dixie, piling new hardships on the winter-weary eastern two-thirds of the nation.

Tragedy marched hand-in-hand with the bitterest weather of February's marathon cold wave, claiming a heavy toll in multiple fatalities fires and in deaths from exposure, over-exertion and traffic accidents.

At least 141 persons have been killed in the latest blast of wintry weather which began during the weekend. New England counted 32 deaths, and Pennsylvania, Mississippi, New Jersey and Georgia reported 20 victims each.

Flash Fire Kills 12

Among the Georgia victims were 11 children and a mother of four of whom who were killed Monday night when a fire blazed on a radiant heater engulfed their two-unit apartment house in Atlanta.

The latest deaths brought to at least 347 the number of fatalities blamed on the weather since a cold wave invaded the Midwest Feb. 6 and began its sweep from the Rockies to the Atlantic.

The storm marooned hundreds of persons in trains and cars stalled by lowering snow drifts, isolated scores of rural residents, forced schools and industries to shut down in the Northeast, the Midwest and South, and interfere with the work of Congress.

State of emergency were in effect in snow-paralyzed Springfield, Mass., and Michigan City, Ind., and in fuel-short Huntsville, Ala. Gov. Theodore McKelvin declared a legal holiday today in snow-covered Maryland.

Maryland was buried under a snowfall of up to 19 inches, including a 16-inch blanket at Baltimore, the heaviest in 10 years. In Massachusetts, state officials estimated it would cost one-half million dollars to clear roads.

Government Workers Off

All government workers in Washington, D.C., were given today off in the wake of a 14-inch snowfall, the biggest in 22 years, and near zero temperatures. Corridors were empty in government buildings Monday and less than 100 of the 431 House members showed up.

In Michigan City, hit by a freak 42-inch snowfall, some 70 pieces of snow removal equipment fought to free the city, but ran into the problem of what to do with the snow, already piled into small mountains along the sides of roads.

Fifth Army headquarters in Chicago pressed a helicopter into service late Monday to rescue 21 Boy Scouts and six adult leaders trapped in deep snow near Westville, Ind. The boys had been snowbound since Saturday and ran out of food Monday morning.

Helicopters also were used in Pennsylvania, lashed by its worst snowstorm in 20 years, to remove two boys requiring emergency treatment to hospitals.

Emergency crews rescued 850 boys and girl Scouts marooned Monday by 10-foot drifts in New Jersey, and at least 150 Boy Scouts remained snowbound in mountain encampments in the state about 1,000 Boy Scouts were stranded by snow in camps in New York State.

Overnight temperatures plunged toward zero for the second straight night in all of the nine Southeastern states except Florida. Atlanta recorded a low of 2 above zero.

Mayor R. B. Searey of Hunterville declared an emergency in the "Missile City" because the zero weather had drained the natural gas supply. He ordered gas shut off to the city's 8,932 users, most of them homeowners.

G&F Studies Acquisition of Land

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The Arkansas Game and Fish Commission in a meeting with the Arkansas Wood Products Assn. board of directors today agreed to formation of a joint committee to study land acquisition by the state agency.

The meet was held at request of the association, which includes major lumber companies in the state. About 20 members, some not on the board, were present. Waldo Tillar, of Little Rock, acted as spokesman for the lumber group and told the commission that the association members were afraid the state is going to take too much of their land, cutting down the amount of lumber available at a fair price. Shuffield said the commission can condemn only for fishing, not to shoot over. The Game Commission discussed a letter from atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett protesting the new $2.50 license required for pole fishing. No action was taken.

Tail Fins Is Object of Intellectuals

By JIM KLOCKENKEMPER
United Press Automotive Editor
DETROIT (UP)—In the wake of Russia's Sputniks, some of America's intellectuals decided our culture had gone to pot and they settled on Automobile tail fins as the object of their wrath.

Today, the honored stylist who brought car tail fins to their ultimate—and some say their most graceful—use refused to apologize for his fin "sins."

Virgil M. Exner, 48, Chrysler Corp. vice-president and director of styling, said he feels the fins he designed are expressions of a car's "look of motion."

"In the main," he said, "the very people who criticize over-nateness would be the first to criticize designers whose products looked too cheap and plain."

Symbol of Motion

Exner said the fin has become "the symbol of the latest, most up-to-date design and to us that it is a compliment."

"The fin is part of the dart, or needle shape, that expresses motion," he said. "When shapes are used that do not indicate the product at all, that is what I call excessive design."

A trim, impeccably dressed silver-haired man, Exner was speaking from behind a large, dark-stained desk in his Chrysler styling center office. The office was tastefully paneled and draped and in no way excessively decorated.

Of future styling, Exner said, "We will continue to express a feeling of motion. A car is not a static thing like a refrigerator."

He said things demanded by the public include more inside room, a low silhouette ("This provides a more pleasing shape and better proportions but we can't make cars much lower. We'll improve what we've done in the past") and more glass ("We try to slim down the roof pillars as much as possible. We are experimenting with cantilevered roofs with no front pillars.")

Adaptation To Small Cars

Touching on the forbidden field of small car design, an area in which America's Big Three car-makers are silent, although it's known all are preparing plans, Exner said he thought American stylists can adapt U.S. styles to small cars.

"You do not have the proportions to work with in a small car, you must remember," he said. "Also, Europe has produced some particularly beautiful four-door small cars although their production models they generally haven't bothered with styling facilities."

"Even a small, economy car doesn't have to look deliberately sparse in appearance," he said. "New developments of the light-weight metals are going to be of increasing value in styling because their materials can be used in the basic design of the car."

Russia Asked to Prove Sincerity

By WILLIAM GALBRAITH
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States has put it squarely up to Russia to show the world whether it sincerely wants a fruitful summit meeting or just a propaganda tug-of-war, U.S. officials said today.

That was the interpretation placed on Monday's cautiously worded note from President Eisenhower to Soviet Premier Niko-lai Bulganin. The President gave the Russians a long-lashed for making "bitter" speeches about the United States and accused Soviet losses for "misrepresentation" American motives.

He said he and Bulganin seemed to have reached an "impasse" in their efforts to set up a summit meeting through exchanges of letters and suggested they quit wringing "speeches" to each other.

Democrats at home and U.S. allies abroad endorsed the President's stand. A British Foreign Office spokesman said Prime Minister Harold Macmillan considered Eisenhower's letter an "excellent statement."

Saki McManisfield (D-Mont.), assistant Senate Democratic leader, termed the President's call for less publicized contacts "proper."

He said many letters by Kremlin leaders seem to be chiefly for propaganda and "what Bulganin really wants is a set of pen pals."

Manisfield approved of preliminary negotiations by ambassadors and other diplomats. "If there is to be a summit meeting," he said, "it should be for the purpose of reaching agreements reached informally on lower levels."

Expulsion Is Blamed on Two Words

By PHIL NEWMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—After all the things they said to me, I was kicked out for saying two words," said the 16-year-old Negro girl as she sat looking at a framed Americanism award given her by a veterans' organization.

She was Minnie Jean Brown, one of the "Central High Nine" Negroes who integrated the school under paratrooper protection last fall. She had just been informed she was expelled.

Minnie Jean said it "hurt a lot" to know she wouldn't return to Central with the five other Negro girls and three boys but she said she was "interested to know" which other Negro will now be the "target" of segregationist students.

What did she mean by target? "I mean the one certain students concentrate on—the one they will start a sort of campaign of pouring ink on, saying filthy things to and generally making life miserable for," she said.

School officials said Minnie Jean was expelled because she retailed after she agreed not to.

She said the two words that got her expelled were "white trash," which she called a white girl who "had been calling me something I won't repeat at this time. You couldn't print that anyway."

"It just got to the point where I couldn't stand it anymore," she said. "Can you imagine having the school allowing white students to do or say anything they choose to you and not being able to even raise your voice to them?"

"I've taken a lot without saying anything," she said.

"Like what?" she was asked. "Well, for a while there, certain students would wait until I walked into the classroom. Then, it was like a pep-rally. A couple of them would yell: 'Here comes that black nigger Minnie Brown,' then on a signal, they'd all hiss."

"Then some girls got into the habit of everytime they'd see me stretching my lips like this (she illustrated) they'd point at me and yell 'Ubangin!'"

Minnie Jean said "got acquainted with quite a few white students" after school started last fall.

"But most of them have forgotten they know me or are not sincere anymore," she said. "They are under a lot of pressure from other students not to act friendly toward me."

"I got to the place where I waited for them to speak first in the hallway," she said. "I decided I wouldn't force myself on them if they didn't want to speak."

Minnie Jean said she thought it would have been "more comfortable for us if they hadn't seattered the Negroes out so much."

She said there was only one class in the school that had more than one colored student.

"I think if they had allowed 25 to 30 of us at least in the school, we wouldn't have felt so self-conscious and it would have worked much better. There's safety in numbers, you know."

Minnie Jean said Blossom suggested she keep up in her school work by correspondence courses then re-apply for admission next fall. She said she hadn't made up her mind on that for sure.

"You hear lots of folks say they doubt if the Negroes will be back at Central next fall," she said, "but I think they will and if I can, I'll be back, too."

Raps Teaching of U. S. Heritage

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—American youth is being taught superficial or distorted "notions" about our country's heritage, Mrs. Fredric Groves, of Cape Girardeau, Mo., told the Arkansas Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution Monday night.

Mrs. Groves, president general of the DAR, said as a result of the misteaching, some American soldiers accepted Communist indoctrination when they were captured in the Korean War. She charged "misguided intellectuals" with teaching ideals of the collective state.

"As a result, our youth grows up without strong convictions, without real understanding, and therefore is vulnerable to the intense propaganda to which all of us are exposed today," she said.

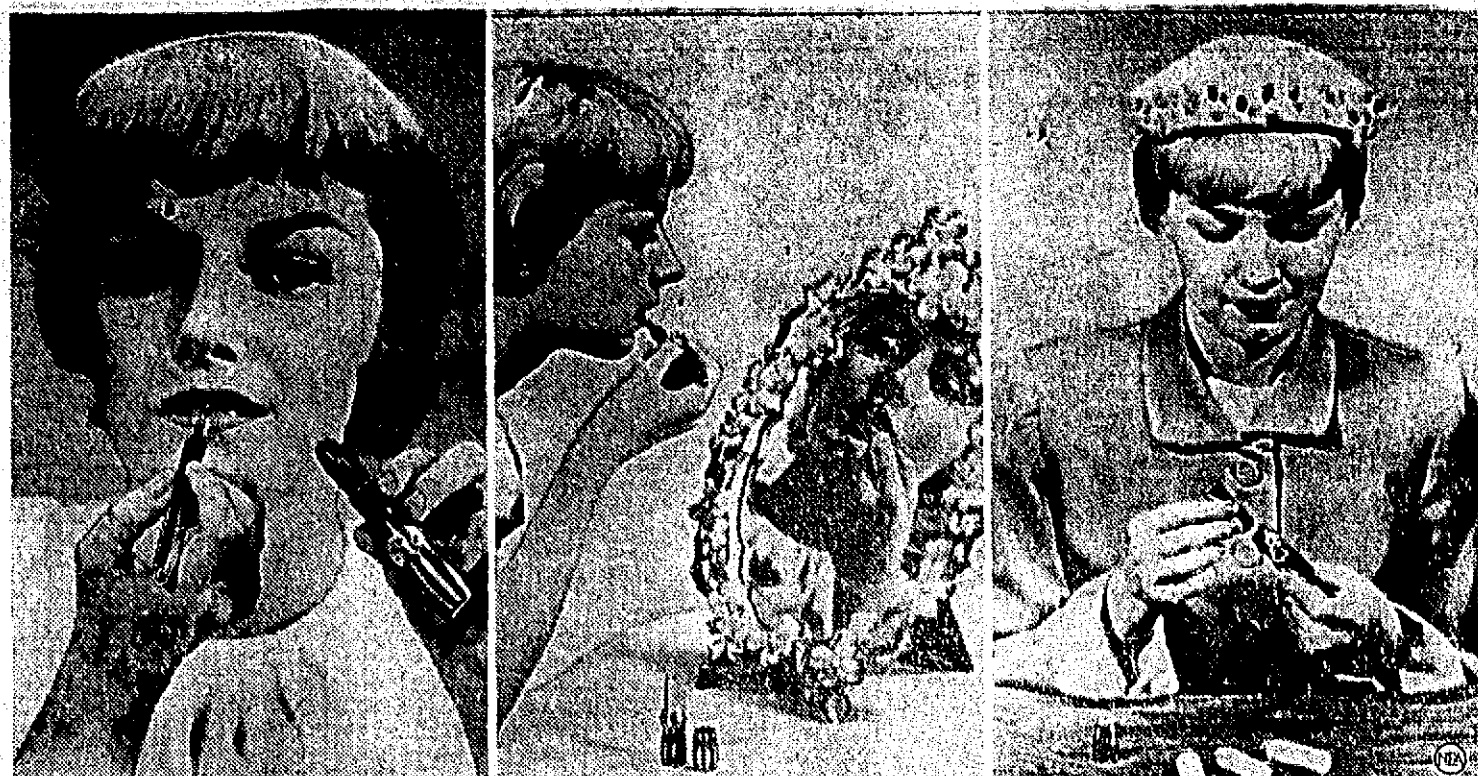

Mrs. Groves attacked secret agreements made after the World Wars and criticized low tariffs and foreign trade.

About 1,450 women are attending the convention which ends Wednesday. Delegates are to attend a tea at the Governor's mansion today, and Dr. George S. Benson, Harding College president is to speak at a dinner tonight.

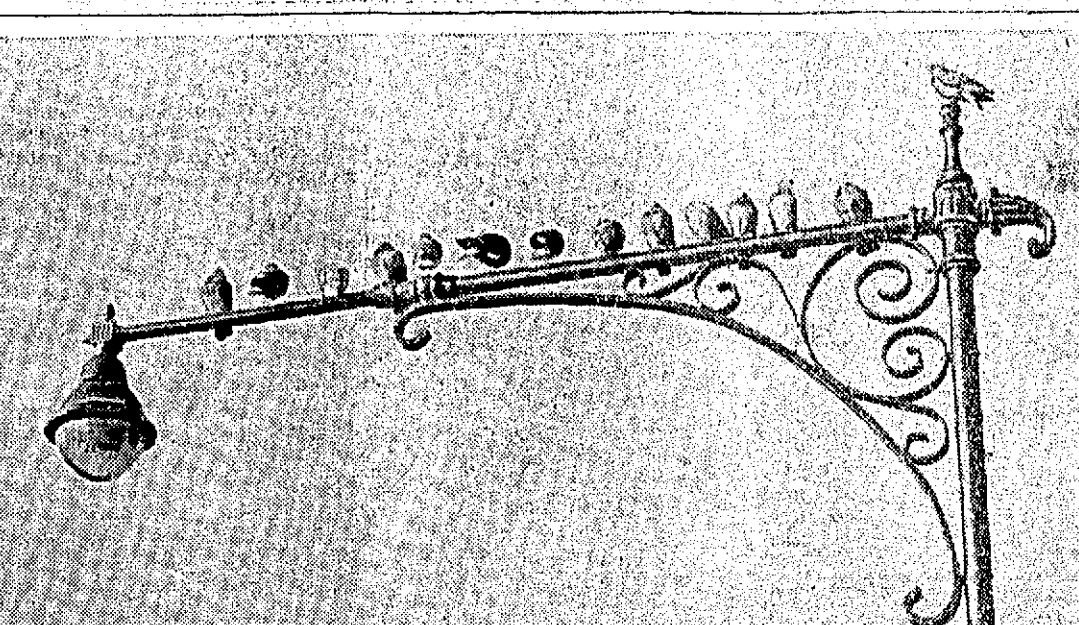

Martin Chonault, a farmer in British Columbia, Canada, has his own "deep freeze." In a cave in a mountain near his farm he stores his vegetables and fruits. The cave is lined with crystal-clear natural ice throughout the summer.

cold weather. Officials said the firm has shut down gas to large industrial consumers but still more gas is being used than the company is allotted.

The cities affected include Jonesboro, Walnut Ridge, Nettie, Alton, Hoxie, Newport, Batesville, Seary and several neighboring communities.

The art of applying lipstick is just exactly that. It requires patience and practice to achieve a natural-looking, smooth and flattering lipline. First step in applying lipstick with a brush is to outline (left) the upper lip. This outline need not follow the natural outlines of your mouth. With a brush, you can create the outline most becoming to you. Now, fill in the lower lipline (center). This should be a smooth, even curve and it takes mere seconds to switch lipstick shades (right) when you change costumes or hats. The new refillable lipstick eases make it possible to change your lipstick color each morning and evening without wasting time.

DOROTHY DIX

Oldest Fairy Tale
Tops Mother Goose

Dear Dorothy Dix: Several years ago my husband left me for no reason at all. We have two children and I don't know how I would have raised them if my family hadn't been so wonderful. I'm working, and get along pretty well now, but I do get awfully lonesome. Four years ago I started to keep company with a married man of 45. I knew he was married, but my parents don't and they have become very fond of him. He's good and generous to all of us. He promised to get a divorce and marry me when his children were out of school; they're married now and there's still no sign of divorce. If I bring up the subject, he gets angry. He says he'll handle things in his own way. I must make up my mind one way or the other. Should I go see his wife and ask her to divorce him or give him up?

LINDA
Dear Linda: This fairy tale about "I'll get a divorce and marry you when the children are in school" out of school on their way married" is about the oldest bit of fiction since man was given the gift of speech. How man can still find women simple enough to believe it is an eternal mystery. I have had women use my shoulder as a crying towel after wailing from two to fifteen years in this hopeless vigil, only to be told, "I have decided to stay with my wife," when he never had any intention of leaving. Please believe me, and act on my advice. There's absolutely no future whatsoever in this relationship. You're hurting yourself, your children, weakening your morale and your moral fibre. When the truth comes out, you'll be despised by your family. Break off completely, go back to church with your children, and depend on them and your parents to cure your loneliness. I'd like to hear from you again.

Dear Dorothy Dix: We're a family of three married sisters and one living brother (single). The daughter of our dead brother is about to be married. My sister-in-law invited one sister and the brother to the wedding. We see no reason why the other two were left out. There has never been hard feelings between us.

TESSIE
Dear Tessie: More ill feeling is created and preserved through wedding invitations than through anything else. Of course it's impossible for me to say why she invited some members of the family and not the others, but I suggest that the invited ones attend and the others stay home without showing their hurt. Be big about it, and you may be offered an explanation one of these days.

Dear Dorothy Dix: A friend of mine, whom I love dearly, is a widow of 40. She has a boy friend who is 60 and is married. I've advised her to give him up and she became so angry she no longer speaks to me.

DEA D. F.
Dear D. F.: You've said your piece; there's nothing else to do but wait. Your friend certainly knows she's wrong that your advice was right, your intentions the counsel told the group last Thursday that the FCC had awarded the channel to the "least qualified" of the applicants, overruling a "strong opinion" from its examiner.

Sharman said today that while he didn't use the phrase "least qualified" in his report, that was a "fair" characterization of his findings.

Sharman said he recommended Katzenline because he was "best qualified" on grounds of local ownership, civic record, and a generally good broadcasting record.

Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams is among those the former counsel has mentioned as possibly exerting undue influence on regulatory agencies. But Harris was non-committal about calling him. "Both Moore and Adams were brought into the explosive inquiry by Dr. Bernard Schwartz, assistant chief counsel of the subcommittee, who has charged that a 'White House clique' applied improper pressure on the FCC and other regulatory commissions."

Whiteside Summoned

The investigators summoned to today's public session Thurman A. Whiteside, Coral Gables, Fla., attorney identified by Schwartz as a "fixer" for a Miami television channel seeker. Schwartz said Whiteside gave FCC Commissioner Richard A. Mack $2,650 after Mack was allegedly "pledged" to vote for the TV firm Whiteside represented.

The firm, a subsidiary of National Airlines, was awarded Miami's contested TV Channel 10 with Mack voting for the award. Whiteside has called Schwartz a "liar." Mack has denied wrongdoing. The FBI is investigating the alleged payments to Mack.

Also called to testify today were: —Robert H. Anderson, now a circuit court judge and former attorney for National Airlines.

—Paul R. Scott, another attorney for National Airlines in the TV case and a director of the airline's subsidiary, Public Service Television, Inc. that was awarded Channel 10.

—Bernie Palmer Jr., former

"white trash." She also had soup poured on her about two weeks ago by a white boy who himself was later suspended.

Last week, Minnie Jean was given a two-week suspension after the soup and purse incidents. Blossom said in a suspension letter to the girl's parents that when she was re-admitted Jan. 13, she agreed not to retaliate "in any manner to any harassment from other students."

The girl and her mother, Mrs. W. B. Brown, met with the school board to appeal the impending expulsion.

Mrs. L. C. Bates, president of the Arkansas chapter of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People, said the expulsion was "a shock as we still had hope." She said NAACP lawyers were looking into the case.

Minnie Jean said she was "thinking over" Blossom's suggestion that she keep up in her studies by correspondence courses, then re-apply for admission to Central next fall.

She said the expulsion news "hurt a lot."

Meanwhile, three white students were suspended Monday following display of signs reading: "One down — eight to go" in school corridors and a pushing incident on a stairway.

The suspended students were Howard Cooper, Sammie Dean Parker and Billy Ferguson.

The Parker girl and the Cooper boy were suspended for wearing placards whose legend had an obvious reference to the Brown girl's suspension and imminent expulsion.

The Ferguson boy was suspended for involvement in a shoving incident with Gloria Ray, another Negro girl. Other students said the youth shoved the colored girl mayor of Miami and a friend of Mack. Palmer was reported to have sought unsuccessfully to get Mack released from the alleged "pledge" to Whiteside.

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Claude Carpenter Jr., attorney for the State Public Service Commission, plans to attend a meeting of the President's National Security conference.

He said he had been invited to the conference next Tuesday by Eric Johnson, an advisor to President Eisenhower.

Playground Group Elects Officers

WAGONER, Okla. (UP)—The Ozark Playgrounds Association, at its 34th convention Monday named Claude Turney, of Thornton, Ark., as its new president.

He succeeds C. W. Johnson, managing editor of the Springfield, Mo., News-Leader, who held the job two years.

The Association is made up of leaders in the tourist and recreation business in Missouri, Arkansas and Oklahoma. Henry Roberts, of Joplin, Mo., was named executive vice-president.

Johnson said during 1957 10,000,000 persons spent at least one night in the Ozark playgrounds area either as vacationists or as tourists. He said tourism is now the major industry of the Ozarks.

Sandy Amoros Sold Back to Montreal

TODAY'S SPORT PARADE
(Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)
By OSCAR FRALE
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) — Sandy Amoros knew today what another little man named Al Gionfriddo found out 10 years ago.

In sports it's easy to be a hero yesterday and a bum today.

Sandy, the pint-sized Cuban, has been sold back to the Montreal farm club by the Los Angeles Dodgers. It's a trip Gionfriddo made with even greater suddenness just a decade ago.

Both of them received their walking papers after being World Series fielding heroes, a pair of sixth inning sensations who were frustrated in the end by anemic bats.

Al Robbed DiMag
Sandy, at least, can't complain that he wasn't given his chances. He lasted two years after the breath-taking grab which permitted the Dodgers to win their first and only world championship.

Gionfriddo was gone the next season after he robbed Joe DiMaggio of a home run. The answer might have been that his catch was in vain because the Yankees went on to capture that 1947 classic.

Little Al thus had only one moment in the warm glory of the baseball sun. It came in the sixth inning of the sixth game in '47 when, with Brooklyn leading, 8-5, the Yankees put two men on base and DiMaggio teed off on a Joe Flatten pitch with a shot which figured to tie it up.

Gionfriddo had been inserted into the ball game that inning for defensive purposes and he raced back to the left field bull pen to snare DiMaggio's ball at the 415 foot mark. It was one of the most spectacular catches in World Series history. It raved the game, although the Yankee won the next day.

Back to Minors
But the following spring, tiny Al was back in Montreal and from there it was down the ladder — Fort Worth, Newport News, Drummondville and Ventura in the Class C California League.

Sandy had his big moment in the 1955 series against those same Yankees who had flogged the Dodgers so often. Going into the sixth inning of the seventh game, southpaw Johnny Podres was sitting on a 2-0 lead and needed only 12 more outs to wrap up the first world championship for the Dodgers.

But suddenly Johnny had big trouble. Posky Billy Martin teased him for a walk and went to second as Gil McDougald was safe on a bunt. Now it was tight-lipped Yogi Berra at the plate, swinging a bat which seemed to Podres as big as a base viol, and it looked like the game was all tied up as Yogi sliced a drive down the left field line.

It was a sure extra base hit — but the flying Amoros caught it, somehow, and wheeling fired to Peevce Reese for a relay which doubled McDougald off first. The threat was over and Podres went on from there to wrap it up.

Now Amoros is gone, just like Gionfriddo. But then, so are the Dodgers.

Hope Prepares for State Meet

Bobcats, Porks Kick Off Week of Basketball

The Bobcats and the powerful Razorbacks from Texarkana will kick off a full week of basketball here tonight at 7:30 in Jones Field House.

Wednesday marks the opening of the State Class A Senior girls basketball tournament which will continue throughout the week.

Texarkana Favored
Texarkana boasts perhaps the best team in the Big 8 conference and possibly in the state. In the initial meeting of the two teams earlier in the season the Porkers barely edged Hope 58 to 57.

The Bobcats will have to be hot to stay with the tall Porkers who don't have a starter under six feet tall. The main scorer is 6'7" Al Morrison who averages around 22 points a contest and is considered one of the best centers in the state.

One of the largest crowds of the season is expected to be on hand as this city warms up for the state tournament. The playoff will bring 10 of the top basketball teams in Arkansas together.

3 Games Wednesday
Wednesday night three games are scheduled: Winner of Dist. 4, Waldron or Greenwood) against Cabot, runnerup of Dist. 5, at 7 p.m.

At 8:20 p. m. Drew Central, a finalist last year, Dist. 8, plays Texarkana.

The final game of the night starts at 9:40 and pairs Des Arc, of District 6 against Sloan-Hendrix, runnerup of Dist. 2.

Play Thursday starts at 10 a. m. and continues throughout the day and night. Semifinals will be played Friday night with the finals on Saturday night.

Bobby Shantz Signs With the Yankees

By UNITED PRESS
Southpaw Bobby Shantz, one of the smallest players in the major leagues who made a big comeback with the New York Yankees last year, today signed his 1958 contract.

Shantz ran off a string of eight straight victories for the Yankees early in the 1957 season and hit the halfway mark with a 9-2 state. He tailed off somewhat during the last half of the campaign but still wound up with a respectable 11-3 record.

The Yankees also announced that Tony Kubek will report to their instructional camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., this week for training at second base, renewing reports that they may trade Bobby Richardson to the Cleveland Indians for relief pitcher Ray Narloski.

If Kubek learns the second-bagger's job fast enough this spring, maybe that long-discussed Rich Richardson-for-Narloski trade will be completed.

The Detroit Tigers announced the signing of third baseman Benito Bertola and rookie pitcher Chuck Daniel. Bertola, a former bonus baby, worked his way into the Tiger lineup last year, hitting .275 in .07 games. Daniel had a 0-12 record at Charleston last season.

The Emmet P. T. A. is in charge of the concession stand in the lobby of the gym and invite everyone to eat with them while attending the tournament. They are serving sandwiches of all kinds, hot dogs, home made fried pies, popcorn, candy, gum, cold drinks and coffee.

Officials for the tournament are: Bill McClendon, Joe Allen and Bud Crowley, timekeeper; Malcolm Burnette and Joe Weeks and tournament scorekeepers Peggy Cummings and Harold Wright.

The following is a list of the teams entered in the tourney and their season record: Bright Star (5-9), Fouke (20-0), Glenwood (12-7), Lewisville (2-10), Umpire (12-10), Amity (3-14), Bradley (17-5), Bodcaw (8-11), Saratoga (20-3), Okolona (6-11), Locksburg (16-0), Geona Central (14-11), Willisville (22-5), Foreman (8-12), Emmet (6-10), Kirby (7-13), Murfreesboro (13-4), Horatio (8-4), Spring Hill (15-5), Laneburg (15-0), Delight (10-6) and Dierks (4-12).

Arab Groups Complicate the Mid East

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Two rival Arab federations have now emerged to complicate the Middle Eastern situation.

First Egypt and Syria proclaimed a United Arab republic, of which President Gamal Abdel Nasser is to be the dictator.

King of Jordan, Iraq and Hussein of Jordan have reported by forming an Arab federation which they will rule jointly.

Both moves were hailed by their sponsors as dramatic steps toward Arab unity.

Actually, they appear to be promoting disunity.

The kings of Iraq and Jordan have formed their federation as a defensive move against the ambition of Nasser to make himself the master of the entire Arab world, extending from the Middle East in Morocco on the Mediterranean Sea.

Tiny Yemen is expected to join the two little states of Kuwait and Bahrain on the Persian Gulf are talking about joining the Iraqi-Jordanian federation.

Just how the two unions could do anything to promote Arab unity, it is difficult to see.

The fact is that there is only one unifying factor in the Arab world. That is bitter enmity toward the state of Israel.

Egypt and Syria started the new situation in the Middle East when they decided to seek arms from Soviet Russia and its satellites.

Naturally, the Arab kings and ruling Sheikhs want no parts of Communism. They also have no desire to risk losing their thrones by permitting Nasser to become the dictator of the Arab countries. And Iraq, Kuwait and Bahrain have rich oil resources to protect.

Bitter Cold Over Most of Arkansas

By UNITED PRESS

The bitterest cold wave of the season held Arkansas in its icy grip again today, and showed no sign of letting up for another week.

The mercury dropped to below zero in extreme northeast Arkansas early today, and snow was reported falling again in west and northwest portions.

The forecast said it would continue cloudy and cold through Tuesday with a few snow flurries, mainly in the northwest. Wednesday also will be cloudy and cold with a chance of a few snow flurries. Highs today will be in the mid 20's to low 30's, north and in the mid to high 30's south, lows tonight will be from 8 to 18 degrees northeast and 18 to 28 southwest, and highs Tuesday between 25 and 35 degrees.

The extended forecast — Monday through next Saturday — said temperatures will average four to ten degrees below the normal maximum of 57 and the normal minimum of 37. It will continue cold through the period with only brief periods of moderation. Precipitation will be moderate to heavy with rain or snow Thursday and again next Saturday.

The bitter cold forced the closing of several schools in northeast Arkansas today. The Little Rock Central High School in Greene county was closed, in addition to five in nearby Craighead county. However, State police headquarters in Little Rock said they had no reports of roads being closed anywhere in Arkansas.

12 Persons Die in Georgia House Fire

ATLANTA (UP) — Flames touched off by radiant heaters roared swiftly through a two-family dwelling in Atlanta Monday night, killing 12 children and a woman.

The victims were a mother and her four children from one family and seven youngsters from another. Parents of the seven escaped with burns, and a second couple and their five children got out safely.

Shortly after the apartment fire, a three-alarm blaze broke out in a three-story building supply and paint store in the heart of Atlanta, and it was still raging out of control early today. Firemen said apparently no one was in the structure.

Firemen fought the duplex blaze in weather 12 degrees above zero and were able to save most of the structure. But the fire flashed through so rapidly that the victims apparently did not awaken.

"They never had a chance," said Assistant Fire Chief C.W. Poole. "The fire must have started on the ground floor on one side and they were all asleep upstairs."

Larry Jewel Jones, 29, and his wife Sarah, 28, were hospitalized with burns. Jones told his wife to flee, then tried to save the children, but flames were so widespread he had to jump for his life.

The dead were the seven Jones children, Jones' sister, Mrs. Mary

Girls' 'A' Tourney Here Wednesday

Hope basketball fans saw a thriller last Saturday night when Sheridan nosed out the locals 62 to 60, and will see another to night when the Bobcats take on top-rated Texarkana, Ark. — but the greatest attraction of all is coming to Jones Field House for a four-day stand Wednesday night . . . the State Class "A" Senior Girls Tournament.

This is the second consecutive year Hope has been host to the girls tourney — and The Star's picture above shows a dramatic moment on the opening night of the 1957 meeting. Drew Central defeated Emerson 47-31 — but the camera caught this unscheduled scramble for a wild ball. A Drew Central girl is crouched over it, surrounded by three Emerson players poised to grab.

Opening game in Jones Field House Wednesday night will be at 7, with the others scheduled for 8:20 and 9:30. The tourney runs afternoon and night thereafter through Saturday night. There are 16 girls' teams.

by ED LACY

THE STORY: David Wintino, a New York detective, is interrupted in his murder case investigation to talk to a woman who complained that she was being followed and bothered by men. Wintino is surprised to find her young and nice looking, not a "crackpot."

Chapter VIII

She was using a nice mild perfume. I thought our apartment was small but it was Madison Square Garden compared to this cell. There was just room for a narrow foam rubber couch against one wall, a desk with a typewriter between two small windows, one of those red canvas Africa camp chairs in front of an unpainted bookcase stuffed with books, a coffee table piled with magazines and old newspapers, a battered file cabinet, and what had to be the world's smallest combination sink, stove and refrigerator.

Closing the door she put her hands on her hips, asked, "Thinking of buying my place?"

"Give me claustrophobia, Miss Henderson. Where do you want me to sit?"

She pointed at the couch which was covered with a coarse deep red material. I sat and she curled up in the camp chair. She lit a cigarette and I shook my head before she could offer me one. It was crazy, pretty as she was.

She said, "I do wish you'd stop inspecting me — it makes me feel as if I have two heads. Wintino? Are you of Spanish descent? You look Latin. As you may have guessed, I'm Puerto Rican—Hon-dura is my real name."

"I'm part Italian. Now Miss Henderson, what's your trouble?"

"Shee, the beginning of last week my phone has been ringing at odd hours of the night and either nobody answers or a man's voice goes into the most obscene talk. Various men have been to the superintendent downstairs making ridiculous inquiries about me. They've also been to my neighbors. I know I'm being followed on the street. In fact on Monday, Tuesday and this morning when I went to the library — and later when I was shopping — I have been jostled by several different men," she said through the smoke of her cigarette.

"What do you mean by jostled?"

"Exactly what the word means — tripped, elbowed, pushed around."

The last thing she looked like was a neurotic babe. "Having any trouble with your boy friends?"

"No, this isn't any so-called boy friend trouble, as you put it. I know exactly why all this is being done."

"Okay, why?" I asked watching that wonderful full curve move a little every time she breathed.

"Have you ever read the Weekly Spectator? I suppose not."

"I hardly ever get my noggin up out of a comic book."

She gave me a warm smile. "Sorry I was rude. I'm a freelance writer and at the moment working on an article for the Spectator — this is a weekly liberal magazine. My article exposes a newly formed monopoly in the electronics business. I'm certain the firms I'm writing about are trying to stop the article by making me a nervous wreck."

I nodded and wrote in my book. "This chick is in a bad way," as I asked, "What makes you think these business companies are back of this?"

"Because this all started last

Michigan City Isolated by Winds, Cold

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (UP) — Sub-zero temperatures and high winds hampered efforts to haul back mountainous snows which have kept this city of 35,000 in virtual isolation since Sunday.

About 70 pieces of snow removal equipment, some of it from as far as Chicago, bulked 12-foot drifts Monday to clear main streets and free trapped vehicles.

But most of the residential area remained snow-bound, and hundreds of rural families in the area were stranded.

Schools and industries were closed Monday and today, an police routed all but emergency traffic around the city. Most La Porte County roads still were blocked today, as was the nearby community of La Porte.

A freak snowstorm during the weekend left up to 55 inches of snow on the ground. Only a few light snow flurries occurred Monday and Monday night, but wind gusts up to 30 miles an hour swept new drifts across freshly plowed streets.

William Henry Harrison, a White, served as President of the United States for only one month before he died in 1841.

Justice Brings Up Point on Oil, Gas

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — Arkansas Supreme Court Justice Ed F. McFaddin asked the court Monday to decide when oil and gas were first considered minerals in the state.

He brought up the point in a dissenting opinion which disagreed with a Union county decision last week which held the two were not considered minerals in 1900.

The justice suggested Jan. 1,

Warns U. S. of Potential of Future Moons

CHICAGO (UP) — Dr. Werner von Braun, chief of Army rocket experts, warned Monday night that within a "few years" Russian scientists could put up a satellite equipped to relay televised reports of military movements.

As he made his circuit around the world, it could report on construction and on naval and Air Force operations, Von Braun told the first national military-industrial conference.

The director of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency which launched the U.S. satellite Explorer said at a news conference earlier that the United States could strike a definite target in Russia with a nuclear missile very soon.

And vice-versa, he cautioned, making it clear Russia was in very much "the same position"

1900 to set as the date and explained the "oil fraternity" in Sebastian county, Corsicana, Tex., and northern Louisiana referred to oil and gas as minerals before 1900.

"If they regarded oil as a mineral, why should the oil fraternity in Union county be considered less intelligent," the judge wrote.

In the Arkansas case, the court held oil was not included in a mineral reservation clause when J. H. Sigal conveyed a land to M. F. Goodwin.

The first known Arctic explorer was Pytheas, a Greek. In about 325 B.C., he seems to have traveled as far north as the Arctic Circle on the coast of Norway. This was about the same time as Alexander the Great was forcing a way into India. Pytheas took back many true stories which few people believed because they did not agree with Greek ideas about what the world must be like.

Writer Has Praise for Arkansas AICD

NEW YORK (UP) — Hodding Carter, editor of the Greenville, Miss., Delta Democrat Times, praised the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission calling it "one of the South's most progressive institutions" in an article in the current edition of Look magazine.

Carter also praised Winthrop Rockefeller, head of the AICD, whom he characterized as "a transplanted Yankee," for forming the organization.

"Rockefeller, now a registered Arkansan," said Carter, "is emphasizing that educational deficiency lies at the root of that state's economic development."

He said Rockefeller had asked "whether the region can afford a racially dual system."

Carter added: "Industrial migrants wonder what will happen in states that have threatened to abandon their school systems before permitting racial integration."

since a fact-reporting world-encompassing satellite is imminent, he said.

Von Braun reminded his listeners there was no use pretending German brains were responsible for Russia's beating the United States in putting a satellite aloft. Russian scientists did it on their own, he said, and their achievements are considerable.

Other Soviet achievements were possibly in the offing, including "the safe return from orbital flight of a space vehicle," Von Braun said.
